The Republican party of Kentucky, speaking through its accredited organ, the State Executive Committee, has decided that no steps will be taken to contest the alleged results of the election in this state.

Whether the decision be accepted as wise or unwise, politic or impolitic, depends wholly on the point of view. Nevertheless it will stand.

The Congressional contest is thought by some to rest upon a different footing. We do not subscribe to this view. The decision of the question, however, rests, not with any organ or any party, but chiefly with the distinguished gentleman who has ably and creditably represented the Ninth District for many years. So far as we know, Mr. PUGH has not yet spoken, nor has he authorized any one else to speak.

The declared policy of the party, however, is against contests, and this policy is directly in line with the principles enunciated in the late canvass. If the enemy has pursued a different policy we shall profit by their example, and reject the piratical principles upon which that policy is based. Let us teach them that it is common sense and common honesty that constitute the principle of "fair play." According to a great English statesman, the most effective arts in politics are honest arts.

But what will Mr. PUGH have to say touching a policy which seems to overlook his personal claims? We have no authority to speak for Mr. PUGH, but no one who has watched that gentleman's brilliant and successful career in politics needs to be informed that, even if Mr. PUGH should accept the policy which the State Committee has approved, his political future, by that very step, is perfectly assured. A paltry contest for the political honors of a District which he has carried again and again might seriously discredit his chances in contests where, possibly, there are higher prizes to be won.

If there be utterly flagrant proofs of fraud in the late Congressional contest, of course a contest is inevitable; but certainly no such contest is necessary to establish the popularity or political deserts of Mr. PUGH. It is quite possible, indeed, that but for certain local issues in the late canvass Mr. PUGH would have a clear and confessed title to his seat today; and it is very certain that he was at last defeated by influences and exigencies which were not personal to himself and had no existence in any previous race.

EVERYBODY in Mason county howled for a fair election—before the election. The Legislature wisely passed some amendments to the existing law looking to the suppression of illegal voting. Acting under one of these amendments, the election officers in various precincts returned to the County Clerk

89 affidavits concerning the right of affiant to vote. In some cases there were strong counter-affidavits. These papers were given by the County Clerk to the Foreman of the Grand Jury, as the law prescribes; but before the Grand Jury had an opportunity to examine them, the papers were taken away by the Prosecuting Attorney, and the Grand Jury never got another look at them. THE LEDGER wants to know where Mr. DAUM gets his authority for thus overriding the election law. And there are others—at least, it is thought there is one other.

Worms take refuge in the small intestine, where they can easily multiply. White's Cream Vermifuge will destroy these parasites. The verdict of the people tells plainly how well it has succeeded. Price, 25 cents. J. Jas. Wood & Son.

An attractive woman thrives on good food and sunshine, with plenty of exercises in the open air. Her form glows with health and her face blooms with its beauty. A recent story from Texas is to the effect that a cowboy having found his way into a Church raised a disturbance, and the Preacher stalked out of the pulpit, drawing a long six-shooter as he went and driving the boy ahead at the point of the pistol, said, "The next time you come into the Church, come here to worship."

Disease and danger lurk in the vital organs. The blood becomes vitiated and the general health is undermined whenever the stomach and liver fail to perform their functions as nature intended. Herbine will tone up the stomach, regulate the liver, where other preparations only relieve. Price, 50 cents. J. Jas. Wood & Son.

Mr. M. C. Chisholm of 343 East Second street says:

"Mr. Chisholm speaks in high terms of Doan's Kidney Pills. He procured them at J. Jas. Wood & Son's Drug-store, corner of West Second and Market streets, and their use proved them to be an effective kidney remedy. I have heard others express their great appreciation of Doan's Kidney Pills, and a medicine which cures kidney trouble is a most desirable one of which to know."
